

PRIVACY: RE-BALANCING THE OFFICE

The open office revolution has gone too far,

and now the revolution needs a revolution. This course will delve into the history of the last 70 years of office design, how we got to this place in time, and what steps designers can take to understanding the science behind privacy. If you've ever wondered how to inspire and motivate the next generation of the workforce and are desperate to find a way to get their headphones off and their collaboration skills "on", then this course was made for you.
